Rome, July 27.

TO morrow Prince Radzeville, Ambaſſador Extraordinary from the Crown of Poland, makes his publick Entry, which he has ſo long deferred becauſe he pretended to ſome things which would not be yeilded to, and particularly he demanded to be treated with the Stile of Highneſs, which ſome have given him: It is believed that after the Solemnity of his publick Entry and Audience is over, he will begin to think of returning home, or at leaſt that he will retrench his Family, which being at preſent very large, puts him to great Expences. Notwithſtanding there are ſo many places void in the Colledge of Cardinals, there is not the leaſt appearance of a Promotion, which has for ſeveral years been expected, not without Impatience in ſom .

Milan, July 31. Though we are here at perfect quiet, and that we have reaſon to promiſe our ſelves, that the Peace of Italy will continue undiſturbed, yet we ſee our Governor, the Count de Melgar, employ himſelf with great care and diligence to put the places that are of any importance, within his Government, into a good poſture of defence; the Officers are called upon to have their Troops compleat, and recruits are ſent hither from Spain.

Venice, Aug. 3. The laſt Letters from Zant told us that the Galleys of this State were there, That they had great quantities of Proviſions, but that they wanted money, which happened for that the Supply that was ſent from hence was retarded by ſome accident. The ſame Letters add, That the Turks have 50 Galleys at Sea, and that ſeveral Men of War of Barbary are joyned with them, Commanded all by the Captain Baſſa, but that it was not known what their deſign was. The laſt Week the Emperors Envoy had a long Audience of the Senate.

Genoua, Aug. 7. This State having given orders to their Galleys, that are at preſent four in number, on the Coaſt of Sicily, to oblige thoſe of Tuſcany, in caſe they meet them, to ſalute them firſt, the Grand Duke thereupon has ſent another Galley well Armed from Leghorne to joyn the other three that are abroad, that ſo they might be as ſtrong as the Genoueſes; of which this Senate having received advice, the 5th Inſtant in the Evening Sailed from hence, by their Command, another Galley to joyn the four abovementioned. Some days ſince arrived here from Marſeilles Monſieur de Vivonne, Son to the Duke of that name, in a Galliot of 30 Oars; he made a ſhort ſtay here, and went in ſearch of the 12 French Galleys, which it's ſaid he is to command. It is reported that 15 French Men of War are fitting out at Thoulon. At Final arrived, three days ſince, a great Genoueſe Ship from Cadiz, having 800 Soldiers on Bord for the State of Milan.

Dantzick, Aug. 3. The advices we have from Poland are ſo various that we know not what credit to give to them, though after all there is ground enough to believe that the Turks have not any deſign to fall upon Poland this year; and indeed the preparations of the Turks for this Campaign have not been ſo great as to give us cauſe to think that they in end to draw more Enemies upon themſelves. From Moſcow they write, That the young Czar was going to Marry, and that according to antient Cuſtom ſeveral of the moſt beautiful Ladies of that Court had been brought before him, in order to his making choice of one to be his Queen.

Vienna, Aug. 4. The Rebels in Hungary have divided themſelves into ſeveral Parties, who commit great Inſolencies; the Imperial Troops that are to make head againſt them March towards Hungary.

Strasburg, Aug. 9. The Countenances of people here are much changed from what they were; for the continual reports that were ſpread abroad, and which were ſtrengthned by the advices that came from very good hands, of the deſigns of the French againſt this City, are now lookt upon by all to have been without ground. We ſhall be glad we may have reaſon to continue of the ſame opinion, and that the coming of Monſieur de Louvoy into theſe parts, who we are told is very ſuddenly expected, may not again change the face which things ſeem now to put on. In the mean time the Princes of the Empire who are aggrieved at the proceedings of the French, make lowd Complaints to the Dyet at Ratisbonne, and not without reaſon, ſeeing, as they complain, they are by peice-Meals deprived of their Poſſeſſions, amidſt the ſecurity which they ought to expect from the Peace. On Saturday laſt happened a kind of Earth-quake at Baſle, but without doing any great Damage. The Baron de Monclar continues Encamped, with the Troops under his Command, near Croon Weiſſenburg, but intends to remove from thence about the latter end of this Month, towards Hagenaw.

Strasburg, Aug. 12. The French Troops, conſiſting of 2500 Horſe and 10000 Foot, which were drawn together out of Burgundy, Suntgow, &c. and were already on their March towards the Lower-Alſace, received Orders, not far from Colmar, that 8000 of the Foot and 2000 of the Horſe ſhould march directly towards Metz, by the way of Markirken, and, that the reſt ſhould continue Encamped between Colmar and Slechſtadt; the reaſon for thus changing the March of theſe Troops is kept ſecret. The Mareſchal de Crequi is going from Nancy to wait upon the King at Stenay, as Monſieur de Monclar intends likewiſe to do, to make report to his Majeſty of the ſtate of things on the Rhine and
